Aloha Oe's "traditional torch" will highlight the annual senior ceremony tomorrow night in the Fieldhouse at 7:30.

Dr. Joe L. Key will be the guest speaker for the event. He is a native of Troy and a 1955 graduate of UT Martin in general agriculture, he is now Professor of Plant Physiology at Purdue University. He has pioneered research on plant hormone action in relation to nucleic acid - protein metabolism. Other accomplishments of Dr. Key are: Outstanding Agriculture Major, 1954; Who's Who Among Students, 1954; Ph. D. in Plant Physiology, University of Illinois, 1959; National Science Foundation Postdoctoral Fellowship to University of California, '59-'60; and 30 publications in major scientific journals.

ALOHA OE, one of the most solemn and dignified of all The University of Tennessee traditions, was begun at the parent institution in 1926. It became a part of the tradition of UT Martin when the latter was founded in 1927. Today senior students at UT Knoxville and UTMartin relinquish the Torch of Perseparation for the Torch of Service. This light, which the senior attains as a student, he shares through service to his fellowmen.

All seniors participate in Aloha Oe, and on the same night the newly elected Student Government officers are installed.

Senator Baker Appoints Hughes To Youth Program

Charles Wilson Hughes, senior in liberal arts from Martin, has been appointed by Senator Howard Baker to the State Advisory Board of the Youth in Government Program.

HUGHES stated that his job will "mainly be advisory and that he will possibly serve as a liaison between Senator Baker and the youth in Tennessee." The program will initially involve high school students but will eventually include college students. Youth in Government is being started in order to give Tennessee young people a direct channel to their representative in Washington.

Charles Wilson Hughes

Hughes is the immediate past president of the campus Youth Republicans and served as the chairman of the Young Tennesseans for Baker on campus and in Weakley County last fall. During his college career, Hughes has maintained an honor average, being elected to membership in Pi Sigma Phi this year.

Five Nominees Seek UT Senate

Five faculty members were nominated for the position on the University Senate at Knoxville and were determined by balloting at a faculty meeting last week.

Those nominated were: Dr. Glenn Gallien, Dr. Glen Hall, Howard Jones, Dr. Charles Mangam, and Dr. Carl Wasmuth. Dr. Norman Campbell will conduct a mail ballot to determine the representative.

At a recent UT senate meeting, the senators agreed upon a plan of reapportionment giving the Chancellor of his Deputy of UTM, permanent voting representation in the senate.

The senators agreed that the UTM faculty should elect one of its members for a three-year term. Both of these senate positions will become effective the fall meeting next year.

THE SENATE, which meets the second Monday of each quarter, exercises only those educational functions which the faculty as a whole has carried out, and have to do with the educational policy of the University.

It sets requirements for admission and general requirements for degrees and certificates. All business matters become effective only upon approval of the UT Board of Trustees.

Two divisions of the body are composed of ex-officio and elected members. There are twice as many elected members as ex-officio.

Chemist Speaks At Banquet

The Third Annual Banquet of Pi Sigma Phi, local honor society, was held last Thursday in the University Center, with Dr. George K. Schweitzer as guest speaker.

Dr. Schweitzer, Professor of chemistry at Knoxville, stated that for men to understand themselves, they must know "where they've been, where they are, and where they are going." Schweitzer, holder of a doctor of philosophy in inorganic chemistry and another in religion, said man's past and present was the transition from "energy to matter to life to consciousness to self-consciousness. Hopefully, the future is the transition in man from self-consciousness to love."

PRIOR to Dr. Schweitzer's speech, Mrs. Mildred Payne, instructor in English, gave a brief history of Pi Sigma Phi from its formation in 1963 to the present.

Sociologist Gandy To Visit Europe And East Africa

Miss Ethel Gandy, sociology instructor at UTM, leaves May 24 for a four-month trip to Europe and East Africa.

Miss Gandy's return trip in September includes stops in Athens, Greece, Rome, New York, and Washington.

Armstrong Elected AAUW Vice-President

The Martin chapter of A.A.U.W., which includes the surrounding areas, elected as its vice-president Miss Mary Armstrong, head of the Home Economics Department.

THE AMERICAN Association of University Women began with the aim of improving educational conditions for women. Their first attempt was to allow qualified women working in a university to be paid salaries equal to those men received. Since that time the emphasis has changed to better educational opportunities for everyone.

THROUGHOUT the world, chapters are interested in all legislation that involves education. A.A.U.W. tries to keep its members well informed so that they can vote intelligently and in the best interest of education. In order to become a member, a woman must be graduated from an accredited institution that is approved by A.A.U.W.

AS vice-president, Miss Armstrong serves as program chairman. This year's theme is "Society's Reflection in the Arts." Programs for the year include music, architecture, art, religion, literature and drama.

Selective Service System Stops Classification Test

Pending a decision by President Lyndon Johnson, the Selective Service System has discontinued college classification tests. The Executive Chief holds the key - literally - to the classroom in some cases.

IN MARCH Johnson said he was considering the question of whether undergraduates should be deferred until they obtain a bachelor's degree. He asked the nation to debate the issue and commented his advisors could not agree on a solution.

Of course most students support the continuance of the deferment tests. Many feel college is no dodge of the draft that they are more valuable to the army with degrees than without.

ALMOST a million students have taken the tests since they were resumed last year following a two-year suspension. Results of these tests have been made a part of registrants' files at local draft boards and help determine draft status along with grades, class rank, and deportment.

Generally, Selective Service boards have deferred students who are making satisfactory progress toward obtaining a degree in the required four years. Although this has placed a great deal of pressure on some students, this grade consciousness may have made them better students. For although some male students may marry and acquire dependents, most will be drafted - hopefully more productive privates than those with less formal educations.

It Was A Gay Year Here: Branch Falls; Skirts Rise

By Barbara Wortham

This was our year of the polite, long-haired, plaid panted, sockless Southern college man. This was our year of the sweet, coke-sipping, short-haired, short skirted, girdle showing Southern college girl.

SOMEHOW the rumor got around in September that the "Branch" would finally fall off. No one knew exactly when it would happen. But we eagerly looked forward to the time. Then it did. And the seniors found out their invitations read, "The University of Tennessee, Martin Branch."

The Homecoming parade played to the same small crowd. Only this year it rained and even the floats couldn't make it. The Big Orangemen won the game though and everyone was predicting we had a good team.

By that time, we heard some of the television announcers use the word camp. So we searched for its meaning: anything so far-out that it's back in. And then we realized we'd been high camp all along. What about our tenny-grippers and rah-rah shoes?

Basketball came. And basketball went without too many noticing. We had a real good team.

Mod and Rocker clothing didn't really come on big this year. Modest mini-skirts were the style. Some freshmen boys kept their high school hair styles and looked like Elvis Presley with a six week growth.

THIS WAS the year the band didn't show for the IFC dance and no one complained about not turning the air conditioners on. This was the year there was a four-way run-off in SG elections and the Student Center was built and

Pickets Walk For Anyone

By Pat Lynch

Want to criticize something? Pro, con, or neutral? For those who do not have the time or the stamina to join a Capitol picket line, a new organization, Proxy Pickets, will be glad to do the job.

Formed by three 19-year-old students at Washington's George Washington University, Proxy Pickets furnish everything needed for a full-scale demonstration. This includes bodies, signs, chants, and songs -- all for the modest fee of $17 an hour. Twenty-five White House picket pacers cost $79, and $154 will enlarge the crowd to no less than 50 with "larger demonstrations" and "additional services" ready on request.

The founders of the organization willingly admit to staging antiwar protests if possible with picketers who agree with the cause. They feel that the business is more dedicated and new dorms were opened and student activity fees went up and the baseball team was given a new field. Pitching in all general life has been above par. It was a very good year.

Model Of The Year Contest Seeks Undiscovered Girls

The search for the most photogenic undiscovered girls in America is underway in cities across the nation. The winner, who will be named the "Model of the Year," will be selected on a CBS Television special on August 30.

Open to married and single girls, the contest requires a high school diploma and an age limit of 23 years before August 31.

THE "Model of the Year" will win a $25,000 guarantee in modeling fees; the second and third place winners will receive $15,000 and $10,000 guarantees, respectively for a full year. The winners must be able to spend the year following the pageant in New York City pursuing their modeling careers.

Qualifications for the prospective contestants include height (5 feet, 6 inches to 5 feet, 10 inches) and weight (110 to 125 pounds) limitations which reflect model proportions. A girl may have had modeling experience, but must not have appeared as a professional model more than once on national television or in a national magazine.

TWENTY GIRLS will be brought to New York for an all expense paid stay in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and for preliminary judging. Fourteen will be selected by a panel of than just a commercial venture.

JAY SILBERMAN, a political science major from St. Louis and one of the founders, states: "I think it's expanding freedom of speech. There are people who have views they want to express who can't come to Washington."

So who knows? Such new businesses as this may take care of student employment during the summer. At least the hours should be good.

Parade Of Opinion

Dear Editors:

Many residents have expressed a desire and a need for a certain area of our residence halls to be reserved for those students only who wish to maintain optimum study conditions at all times. Beginning next fall quarter, on an experimental basis, third floor of the new F unit, men's Y-Dorm, will be designated as an "honor floor" and will be available only to those residents who meet the following qualifications:

1. Be classified as a sophomore or above in the fall.
2. Have at least a 2.8 overall average.
3. Have genuine desire to maintain optimum study conditions.

Students who qualify and wish to be assigned to this floor must specify "honor floor" on their room application. Those who have already filed their application may change their preference by so notifying this office.

Sincerely yours,
David B. Small

As It Looks From Here

By Bill Benson

The Vol nine hosted two teams Tuesday winning the first encounter with Belmont 2-1 and losing to Austin Peay 4-2.

Mack Terry itched four flawless innings after the Orangemen jumped to 2-0 lead in the first. Jim Marshall's two out two run single scored John Armstrong and third baseman Steve Steele.

THE REBELS finally tabbed Terry for their only run in the fifth after the starter walked one and gave up two base knocks. Reliever Ray Frame took over with two down and held the visitors scoreless allowing only one hit. Terry notched his fifth win of the year.

In the afternoon clash with the APSC Governors, the Vols blew a 2-1 lead in the ninth to go down 4-2. The Gobs tallied first in the opening inning off starter Terry. The Orangemen knotted it 1-1 in the second on Terry's RBI single. UTM went out front in the seventh when they tapped for another marker on hits by Steele and Armstrong. Frame again relieved a tiring Mack Terry in the ninth. Frame found the going even tougher and gave up a three run homer.

THE VOL netters came back from the VSAC tourney in Nashville with their second straight division trophy. Although the Orangemen gained only four points in the tourney, they did capture two doubles wins. Gardner and Weeks, Kubler and Butler both notched first round wins in doubles competition.

The golfers fared better in their playoff tourney by nabbing third place honors. Overall the Vol linksters finished with a 7-8-1 record. Captain Robert Barger held the team's lowest norm with a 72 average. UTM's final golf match with David Lipscomb was rained out but will be rescheduled.

Hawaiian Luau Held By ADPi

The Park Terrace at Fulton, was the setting recently for the annual Spring Luau held by Alpha Delta Pi Sorority.

The affair was held amid a luau setting, complete with fish nets, flower baskets, masks, and other Hawaiian decorations. Hawaiian luau, was served and guests drank punch from pineapples. Afterwards, the members and their dates, dressed in Hawaiian costumes, danced to the music of "The Four" from Brownsville.

During the dinner ADPi President Emily Williams presented the Fraternity of the Year award. This year, the trophy was won by the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. Don Spacht, representing the ATO's, accepted the award from President Williams.
